NUMB. 2585

THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 22. 1743.

Since our laſt arrived a Mail from France and another from Flanders.

Naples, September 3.

THE Advices we have lately received from Reggio give us very great Pain; it ſeems, that the Plague, inſtead of ceaſing, ſpreads there, and becomes not only more extenſive, but more mortal. Between the 6th and the 14th of laſt Month, more have died than ever within that Diſtrict, and with worſe Symptoms; we are in good Hopes, however, through the great Care that is taken, to prevent the Evil from penetrating beyond the Cord drawn by our Troops, under the Command of Count Mahoni. There is one Circumſtance which gives us inexpreſſible Vexation, and that is, the Manner by which this Misfortune was brought amongſt us. There was a Broker, it ſeems, at Reggio, who formed a Project of getting Wealth in an inſtant, and his wiſe Scheme was this: He underſtood, that all Sorts of rich Furniture after the City grew ſickly, ſold at a very low Price at Meſſina; and having therefore agreed with the Guards to ſuffer it to paſs, he next got over in a ſmall Boat to Sicily, purchaſed as much as he could poſſibly bring over, and inſtantly received the Reward of his Avarice, dying of the Plague almoſt as ſoon as he had open'd his Bale.

Genoa, September 7. We have Advice from Antibes, by a Courier going from Spain to Naples, that there have arrived lately at Corunna two Veſſels from Peru, laden with Treaſure, to the amount of two Millions of Pezoes. They write from Villa Franca, that it is apparent from the manner of Admiral Matthews's diſpoſing of his Ships, that he ſhrewdly ſuſpects the French intend to aſſiſt the Spaniards more Ways than one, in their Deſign upon the King of Sardinia's Dominions; but by the Aſſiſtance of the Artillery, and Troops which he has promiſed to debark, and by his continuing to cruize upon our Coaſt, we are in hopes, ſay they, that we ſhall be able to repel the Efforts of the Enemy, notwithſtanding all their Intrigues.

Vienna, September 14. They write from Bavaria, that General Seckendorff had cauſed Circular Letters to be ſpread through that Country, exhorting the People to remain firm in their Duty to their Sovereign, and to be ready to take up Arms, in order to join him when he came to their Aſſiſtance; but that, through the Care and Circumſpection of our Generals and Miniſters in that Country, all theſe Letters had been diſcover'd in time, and the Effects prevented. The Queen, our Sovereign, is ſo well ſatisfied with the Conduct of General Berenclau, in reſpect to the Capitulation of Ingolſtadt, that ſhe has given the Golden Key, which confers the Dignity of Chamberlain, to Col. Maguire, who brought that Capitulation. The Gariſon of Egra is already conducted into Bohemia, where they are to be maintained at the Expence of the Crown of France. As for the Military Cheſt which was in that City, and which, after all the Hardſhips of the Gariſon, remains pretty well furniſhed, it is now for her Majeſty's Uſe. Col. Kolowrath was diſpatch'd from hence this Morning to the General of the ſame Name, with Orders for him to join General Berenclau in his Camp near Ingolſtadt, with the Troops which form'd the Blockade of Egra.

Ratiſbon, September 10. The Hungarian Regency in Bavaria publiſhed an Edict on the 4th, directing all the Inhabitants of the Electorate to bring in an exact Account of all the Damages they had ſuſtained by the Plundering, Burning, and other Violences committed by the French; as alſo of the ſeveral Sums of Money levied upon them by theſe barbarous Auxiliaries, that they may be the better able to fix their Payments for the future, ſo as to prevent an oppreſs'd People from ſinking under further Hardſhips. With the ſame View, the Government have aboliſh'd many Cuſtoms and Prerogatives which appeared to them deſtructive of the People's Happineſs, and have given ſuch Encouragement to Trade and Manufactury, that, in many great Towns, the People apply themſelves to Buſineſs with as much Zeal and Diligence as at any time before the War; and from whence, it is hoped, that Things in that Country will ſpeedily change their Appearance. It is rumour'd here, that Count Seckendorff is gone to confer with his Pruſſian Majeſty, in relation to a new Project for ſettling the Affairs of Germany; and, as we are informed, the Baſis of this Project conſiſts in his moſt Chriſtian Majeſty's aſſiſting the Emperor with a Body of between 20 and 30,000 Men; which, to avoid all Imputations from, or diſputes with the Queen of Hungary's Allies, are to conſiſt of German Troops in his Pay. This Project is indeed plauſible, and from the recruiting the Emperor's Troops with great Diligence, one might be led to think there is ſomething in it; the only Difficulty is to find the German Prince who would, at this Juncture, riſk his Troops, by putting them into French Pay, for the Service of his Imperial Majeſty.

Ratiſbon, September 19. We learn from Munich, that the Adminiſtrator of the Elector of Bavaria received, on the 16th of this Month, the Homage of the Magiſtrates, and Inhabitants of that City, in the Name of the Queen of Hungary; and that this Ceremony was performed as regularly, and as peaceably, as cou'd poſſibly be expected: But that there being juſt Reaſon to doubt whether Things would follow the ſame Order at Straubingen, Care has been taken to march thither a Body of Troops, to prevent the ill Conſequences of the People's Diſaffection. General Berenclau fortifies his Camp, in order to be ſecure againſt all Accidents, and expects daily to be join'd by the Troops which formed the Blockade of Egra.

Fribourg, September 18. Prince Charles of Lorrain is making all the neceſſary Diſpoſitions for maintaining himſelf in the Iſland of Rhinmarck. The Works he has erected there, ſince the 9th of this Month, conſiſt of very ſtrong Retrenchments, or rather, of a regular Fort, which occupies the Centre of the Iſland. The Batteries which he has eſtabliſhed there, are raiſed upon an elevated Ground, ſo as to command all the Batteries of the Enemy. Prince Charles, in Conjunction with Count Khevenhulier, ſtill continues to viſit the Banks of the Rhine, in order to find out a Place where the Paſſage of it may be attempted with Succeſs.

Extract from the Paris Alamain.

Paris, September 27. 'We learn that the Pope has 'lately made a Promotion of 26 Cardinals; and that M. 'Creſcenzi, who reſided here in Quality of Nuncio from 'his Holineſs, and who receiv'd this News at Lyons, 'has inform'd the Queen of it. It is the Abbe Aquaviva who has now the Management of the Affairs of 'the Court of Rome, with the Title of Internuncio.

'We are aſſured that the Dutch encamp ſeparately 'from the Engliſh and Auſtrians, and that they have 'Inſtructions not to act againſt us, unleſs our Troops 'ſhould attack the Allies.

This is not only a direct Violation of Truth, but an Abſurdity at the ſame time; ſince, if this had been the Intention of the States, they would certainly have excuſed themſelves from marching at all.

'It appears, that all that has been ſaid as to my Lord 'Stair's Reſignation being a Feint, was a Miſtake; he 'having in reality diſoblig'd his Britannick Majeſty to 'ſuch a Degree, that he caus'd him to be confin'd, and 'was on the Point of bringing him to a Trial before a 'Council of War. His principal Offence is ſaid to be 'ſpeaking diſreſpectfully of his Maſter.

In the laſt Alamain the Earl of Stair was treated as a Spy; in this, the Writer's Malice is diſcharg'd upon his Majeſty; but it ſo falls out, that one Account is juſt as falſe as the other, the Earl of Stair having left the Army in the beſt Diſpoſition imaginable; and having thought as little of paſſing thro' France, as of uſing ſuch Language as this Libeller, for want of knowing him better, is pleas'd to charge him with.

'They write from Strasbourg of the 20th, that M. 'Noailles had made a Motion, and had detach'd a Body 'of Troops to cut the Lines of Lauterbourg; that there 'remains at Haguenau 18 Battalions, and M. Noailles is 'actually marching at the Head of 15,000 Men to join 'M. Coigny, in order to oppoſe Prince Charles, who 'ſeems determin'd to carry his Point, and to paſs the 'Rhine in the Face of our Troops. They add, that a 'Detachment from the Army of M. Noailles, compoſed 'of a Picquet of the Regiment of Rohan, one from 'that of Touraine, and the reſt Dragoons, making in all 'about 300 Men, and who were order'd to eſcort 100 'Waggons, had been attack'd by the Huſſars; the Captain who commanded the Picquet of Rohan, after 'having ſuſtained three briſk Attacks, found Means to 'retire with 33 Men, and all the Waggons under his 'Care; but the other Picquets, and Dragoons, not having behav'd ſo well, were either kill'd, or made Priſoners of War.

From the Army of M. Coigny, September 20.

'Prince Charles is ſtill poſſeſs'd of three Ports, which 'he maintains on purpoſe to direct us; his Highneſs is 'now poſted near Sponſeck, and we no longer doubt of 'his Intention to paſs the Rhine, for which he is making 'mighty Preparations at ſeveral Places; and has actually 'received 300 Boats, which are to be employ'd in that 'Expedition.

'The laſt Letters from the Infant Don Philip ſay, that 'his Cavalry are at Gap, his Dragoons at Embrun, and 'his Foot at Briancon; the Artillery cannot arrive at 'the Place aſſign'd for it, till the beginning of next 'Month. Theſe Letters add, that his Sardinian Majeſty 'made inconceivable Efforts in order to defeat the Spaniards, having brought into the Field, for that Purpoſe, 'not only all his old and new-rais'd Troops, but all the 'Peaſants alſo that are able to bear Arms.'

LONDON.

According to the lateſt Advices from Naples, it appears, that the Plague ſpreads conſiderably in Calabria; ſo that it is very much doubted, whether all the Care of the Court can hinder it from ſpreading through this Kingdom.

The States General, on the Nomination of the States of Holland and Weſtfreiſland, have appointed M. Calkoen, to relieve M. Abraham Van Hoey, now their High Mightineſſes Ambaſſador at the Court of France.

It is thought, that the firſt Cardinal in the new Promotion, is either a Son of the Chevalier de St. George, or Prince Theodore of Bavaria, Biſhop of Ratiſbon.

It is ſaid, that a Council of War was held in the Camp of the Allies near Worms on the 22d Inſtant, N. S. in which it was reſolv'd to march, and attack the Enemy; and that this Reſolution was immediately put in Execution.

There is a Report prevails in France, particularly at Marſailles, as if we had taken ſeven of their Ships in the Eaſt Indies.

We have Advice from Naples of the 2d of Sept. N. S. that from the 2d to the 15th of August there were 215 Persons dead, out of 500, that were sick in the Lazaretto at Reggio; and that the Government had order'd two Lines a-cross the Calabrian State, to prevent any Communication; and had also forbid any Fairs to be held.

Last Week died at Newcastle, Matthew Chapman, Esq; his Majesty's Coal Inspector for that Port, Sunderland, and Blythe.

On Sunday died, at her Seat at Dagenham in Essex, Mrs. Short, Sister to Mr. Short, an eminent Merchant of this City.

Yesterday in the Afternoon the Poll ended for Beadle of Walbrook Ward, in the room of Capt. Austin, deceased, when Mr. Wootten had a Majority of Eight; whereupon a Scrutiny was demanded in favour of Mr. Proudman.

The State Lottery Office at Charing Cross, directly behind the King on Horseback, kept by Mr. Wilson, having, in all past Lotteries, been esteemed the most Correct, as well as Fortunate, occasions, at this Time a very great Demand for the Tickets, and more especially for the Shares.
